A field blend of grenache, shiraz, cabernet sauvignon and chenin blanc in undisclosed proportions, this blushes a few shades above the increasingly anaemically hued Provençal model. Nor is it subscribing to that flavour and texture script, with forest berries bordered by a hedge of herbal cabernet notes and hints of spice. There's a textural viscosity and sweet-fruited palate play burred with a little grip, putting this in the food rather than fun-in-the-sun category.

A marriage of Grenache, Shiraz, Cabernet Sauvignon and Chenin Blanc makes up this Flamingo pink hue. Pink peppercorn, blood plum and persimmon, the wine is also heavily spiced with sumac, sweet paprika and orange bitters. Pickled watermelon, prosciutto and sour cherry. This is a savoury and spiced number with layers of complexities. Probably more akin to a light shaded red wine in its structural and flavour profile. A serious Rosé with the ability to be totally delicious and smashable at the same time. Drink with a peppery rocket salad with figs and goat's cheese.
